Subject: a quick thanks for your helpful student math resources. :-)

Hello there,

My name is Beth Mowry. I'm a math tutor for some lovely students in Northern California. I just wanted to take the time to send you a quick thank you note on behalf of my class and myself for the resources on your page (<http://math-wizard.com/mathdocs.htm>). Your page was a great reference for my students. So from all of us, thank you for your help. :-)

As a token of our appreciation, we thought we'd send along another helpful page one of my students found — <http://www.barcodesinc.com/articles/become-an-expert-a-guide-to-fraction-fun.htm> . It has some great resources and games to help them practice and study fractions. We thought it could be helpful for other students as well.

And if you wouldn't mind adding it to your other resources, I'd love to show my students who went above and beyond to find the sites that their work was appreciated.

Thanks again, and we hope to hear back from you soon!

Sincerely,
Beth Mowry and her Math Students
